Beautiful Nuh, Haryana

Nuh is the district of the Indian state Haryana. It lies on the National Highway 248 (NH 48) or Gurgaon-Sohna-Alwar highway about 45 kilometres from Gurgaon. It is 70 km from New Delhi. It is located in the far southwest area of Haryana. Climate in City is Extreme. Lowest Temperature: 0-1 degrees Highest Temperature: 44-45 degrees.

The town assumed importance at the time of Bahadur Singh of Ghasera because of the trade in salt manufactured in neighbouring villages. To the west of the town is a masonry tank of red sandstone tank featuring a chhatra adorned with floral designs. The tomb of Sheikh Musa combines Muslim and Rajput forms of architecture and is about 2.5 kilometres (1.6 mi) from the town.

Nuh is well connected to Gurgaon, Delhi, Rajasthan and Uttar Pradesh by high frequency bus service. Night bus services are also provided by Rajasthan and Haryana Roadways.
